WIN!

One of five pairs of Exustar Stelvio shoes

'It's the shoe that tourists and commuters alike have been waiting for.'

When Chris Juden reviewed the Exustar Stelvio shoes in Cycle there was no equivocation. 'Riding and walking, they are perfect... Immediately comfortable... I've not worn any of my other road shoes since.' Now thanks to Exustar distributor Riva Sports Industries, we've got five pairs to give away in this issue's prize draw.

The Stelvios have a black leather upper that's more weatherproof than the fabric of sports cycling shoes and that looks smart and conventional when you're off the bike. The sole has a removable cutout for recessed cleats, although you can leave this in place for use with ordinary pedals.

The shoes were redesigned a year ago: the sole was refined and the tongue was upgraded to leather. Chris liked the new Stelvios even more. 'The new model is just as good to walk and ride in and looks better on the pavement.'

For more information about Exustar Stelvio shoes, visit www.exustar.com. The shoes are available from all good cycle shops and online. They're distributed in the UK by Riva Sport Industries, tel: 020 8965 2510.
